

March 18, 2020

Public and constituent inquiries | 360.902.4111

Press inquiries | 360.902.4136

Inslee announces relief for business, workers, tenants and more in response to COVID-19 outbreak

Gov. Jay Inslee today announced substantial measures for Washington state businesses and workers, as well as renters and other residents who may struggle financially to pay utility bills while dealing with loss of income during the COVID-19 outbreak. This is in addition to the state support for workers and businesses, and the state financial, export, insurance and unemployment assistance that has already been made available.

“These are unprecedented times,” Inslee said. “We must do everything we can to support the resiliency of Washington workers and employers.”

For detailed information on these sweeping measures, read the governor's Medium page.
